News International Ltd joins Vio's VCSP Ad Delivery Gateway

London - News International Ltd, the UK subsidiary of News Corporation, today announced their selection of Vio Worldwide Limited to provide a new online delivery service for colour print advertising. The new service will enable advertisers to send high quality colour advertisements directly to the publisher with the unique benefit of providing the security of a certified monitor proof. The underlying technology for the service will be Vio's Certified Soft Proofing (VCSP) system. Utilising the new streamlined delivery service, advertisers will be able to directly upload advertising artwork and related information to News International titles including the Times, The Sunday Times, The Sun, News of the World and thelondonpaper. The new service will be operational from November 12th 2007.

Steve Smith, Publishing Development Manager, News International said: "We aim to provide our advertisers with a wide range of delivery mechanisms for colour advertising delivery. Vio's solution ensures our customers can send us digital files that meet our stringent colour requirements, whilst giving our operations team a detailed record of the submission. VCSP is a proven solution for brand owners, pre-media companies and advertising agencies."

News International titles will be accessible on the Vio Gateway, a web-based advertising portal that provides access to the UK's top national publishers. Advertisers simply drag a PDF advertisement file to an icon on their desktop to access the Vio Gateway and begin the submission process. All files will be size-checked, preflighted and soft proofed to News International's exact ISO colour printing profile prior to being uploaded to their internal production workflow. Senders will receive a confirmation email with a copy of their job ticket and a thumbnail image of the sent file. VCSP is an easy-to-use system that allows advertisers to deliver exceptional quality digital files for colour advertising. Accuracy, accountability, and speed-of-use distinguish VCSP from other delivery services. Patricia Kill, Director of Advertising Operations for News International said, "This development is a great plus as it is in line with our strategy to provide alternatives to Advertisers whilst ensuring our commitment to maintaining reproduction quality within our titles."

According to Chris Friend, Vio's Managing Director, "It is great to see News International's commitment to Vio's proven Certified ad delivery technology. Advertisers have been asking for a single entry point for submission of colour advertising to all UK national newspapers. Adding NI's titles to the Vio Gateway shows that publishers are being even more responsive to customer needs."
